ath Carolina are in a deplorable condition. Many of the people in the interior are said to be of Sherman's army through the State was like a stroke of paralysis. Its railroads, its public works, its industry-what there was left of itceased in a moment, as it were, to exist. The dvalry who were going to eat the Tankees on sight, or die in the last ditch, were nowhere to be found. The women, it is said, were so dis gusted that they proposed to be tow noon the are-caters petticoats as rewards for their prowess. There was much grumbling among them during the war because the Virginians didn't drive Grant from her sacred soil. Only Let that imperturbable individual and his cohorts come down to South Carolina and she would show the laggards of the Old Dominion how to

This was in allusion to his having ncipated his negroes at his death. When Northern gentlemen vieited Charleston, nn'ess they came with letters of introduction to well known persons a secret committee was usually prointed to watch them lest they should be found tampering with slaves.

Secession was nearly unanimous in South Carolina. Up in the mountain district, about Greenville, where B. F. Perry edited the Greenrille Patriot, the only anti-nullification paper in the State, there was some oppositi n, but everywhere else there was a dreary morass of e rights, nullification, secession, disunionat-any-cost, and whip-all-creationism. Scarcely a flower of commor sense relieved the desolate w. Perry maintained the fight with nullification for twenty years or more, but never made any progress in the lowlands. He used what do you think, reader?—nothing but red o tell the nulliflers sarcastically that if South Carolina didn't secede she would be "doomed to prosperity." He succumbed of course at last to secession. It was yield or die, in that State was the "Koran or the Sword."

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S POLICY.-We have al- and heroically devoted himself to the country ready cordially indorsed the wise and states- in the mighty struggle from which we have just nanlike policy announced by President Johnion in his several proclamations anthorizing the restoration of civil government in the lately and practical, recognizing the political organtions of the respective States as they existed prior to the rebellion, regarding the ordinances of secession as null and void, as well as all subquent acts predicated upon them, and resting the civil power upon the will of the legal loyal roters of the States. He is unwilling that those es shall be held in military subordination any longer than the actual necessities of each ace may require, and he has opened the way by which the people themselves, acting in good ith to the Government, may speedily restore heir former practical relations with the Union. small class of ultra men, whose ideas of gov nment are fundamentally antagonistic to the rdinal principles of the Constitution, have on urging President Johnson to assume the ower of conferring the elective franchise upon ancipated slaves in the reorganization of returning States, but they have received no pathy from him, taking, as he does, the ad position that the qualification of voters of the respective States themselves, ther the President nor Congress having thing to do with the subject. We have bens a letter which appeared in the Ohio te Journal on the day of the assembling of recent State Convention at Columbus, Ohio, nd which was written by a prominent delegate that convention. We are directly and reliably med that the letter fully embraces the views sident Johnson, and that it is in truth a in the Unior ar publican form of government berefore, he, as President of the United Sta paceeds to put in motion the machinery that may enable the ligad loyal voters of the State to set in operation again the civil government, referring back to the date of the so called ordinance of secession, to ascertain who are the legal voters of the State. However, by his antherity as Commander-in-Chief of the army, he prevents the rebel legal voters from exercising the right of suffrage by requiring the test-outh-set forth in the amoesty Proclamation of May 29, 1865 By this action he enfranchises no one, but, by virtue of his pardoning power. no one, out, by virtue of ins paraoning power presentes the condition on which a legal lova voter of the State may exercise his pre-exist, no right of cultrage, by acknowledging the author it of the Government of the United States without which oath he is no voter under the Constitution and laws.

It by no means follows, as some argue, that the Estates are as they were,  $a \in bel u$ , that the officers whom President Johnson has displaced, are the legitimate State Government, because there can be no legistrate State Governments that acknowledge rebel authority and resist the paramount authority of the Constitution of the United States by arm d rebe lion; which forfeits the rights of these officers to hold office but not the right of the legal, loyal voters of the State to choose other officers who may office but not the right of the legal, loyal voters of the State to choose other offi ers who may bring their State again into "proper practical" relations to the Government of the Union. In the beginning of the war, this principle was fully recognized by every department of the Government in reference to Virginia, when Pierpont was elected Governor by the legal, loyal voters, and Messer, Carlisle and Willey admitted as United States Senators, long before West Virginia was extensited from the blance bow the laggards of the Old Dominion how to light; she would give to the world illustrations of her subline chivalry; every valley should become a Thermopyle, and every village a Saragossa. The performance, however, did not come up to the programme of the counding manifesto.

According to Hardce, South Carolina is the worst whipped State in the Union. And her people are perhaps suffering more at the present time than those of any other. It is the old law of retribution, to which there seem to be no exceptions. We know of no more forcible or terrible example of the truth of the oft quoted old saw, that "whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad"—Quem The foregoing is a clear and forcible and

A powerful plea in favor of home manu actures is found in the extensive adulteration to which foreign articles are su jected. Whenever General Sherman aneaks h ters words of wisdom and truth. A few days ago he received an ovation at his old home, Lancaster, Ohio, and he improved the occasion with hope and confidence in the future of the nation. General Sterman, who has so grandly emerged, believes that the Republic is now secure forever, and that, if a fraternal and julicious policy shall be adopted toward the Southrectionary States. triumphant armies have passed and the great deeds they have achieved he said: deeds they have achieved he said:

The post is now with the historian, but we must still grapple with a finture. In this we need a guide, and, fortunately for us all, we can trust the Constitution which has safely brought us through the gloom and danger of the past. Let each State take care of its own local interests and affaire—Onle of hers, Louisiana of hers, wisconsin of hers—and I believe the best results will follow. You all know well that I have lived much at the South, and I say that, though we have been bitter and fierce enemies in war, we must trust this people again in peace. The bad men among them will separ the from those who ask for order and peace, and when ore who ask for order and peace, and wh rom those who ask for order and peace, and when be people do thus separate, we can encourage he good, and, if need b, we can ent the head of the bad off at one blow. Let the present asks care of the present, and, with the faith instead by the past, we can trust the future to he future. The Government of the United states and the Constitution of our fathers have enoven their strength and power in time of war, and we can safely trust them now in peace, and I believe our whole country will be accepted. and I believe our whole country will be even more brilliant in the vast and unknown fature t an in the past.

The foregoing expressions are worthy of the best statesman no less than of the best soldier of the Republic. General Sherman understand: the true relations of the States to the Union and of the Union to the States, and his own capreciates also the people of the lately rebellious States, and they should know that the patriotic and enlightened views expressed by him are indorsed by more than three-fourths of the North as the holds the doctrine that the so-called of State necession are null and vold, and called done in pursuance thereof, and hence tall offices held under rebel authority can ared vacant, by the military authority of President of the United States on the the recent bloody strife, and, with their hearty co-operation, "our country will be even more brilliant in the vast and unknown future than Ris greatest performance in that way was smo-ling the retel Government and army out of police officer. The rist calling at the jyl dl.

The salutatory and oration "Energy of Pacpose," was delivered by Mr. Edmund Brewster. The speaker pre-ented many bright thong its but spoke too rapidly, and his chuncialion was scarcely distinct enough.

"Progress of Learning" was the subject of Mr. Wallace F. Grav's oration His theme was an old one, and while no ideas entirely new were produced, the thoughts presented were full of onence and force. Mr. G.'s style of delivery is too pompous to be perfectly graceful and consistent with natural ease.

'Irdications of Deity" was handled in a skilful manner by Mr. James McGrain. The speaker labored under much embarrassment, and his oratory was bad. His arguments were presented with force, and they gave evidence of much thought. We should indge Mr. McG. to be a close student. When he comes to battle more strongly with the rough scenes of active life, he

Mr. James W. Holland delivered an oration on "Literature and Valedictories." His manner was casy, his pestures graceful, and his de livery good. He seemed to be inspired with his theme His arguments were not new, but they were not wantleg in eloqu nee. He paid a glowing tribute to hi University—the tribe of Luisville. The closing part of his address was in Latin, and directed to his professor, and

The money-order cilices are, after to-day, to be increased from eight hundred and eighty to four hundred and twenty, principally in the Western States. Measures have been taken to extend the system to the Pacific coast. The result of the experiment so far has been satisfactory to the Post-office Department, while those who remit small sums of money are perfectly insured from loss.
